DEMOCRATIC CLIQUE RULE.

The Democratic clique has begun through its mouthpiece to howl about alleged ring rule again, hoping to win favor from those in its party who have renounced and denounced every thing that that clique has any thing to do with. It takes the greenest gail we ever heard of for that crowd to put up such a howl after its designs on the welfare of its own party have been so clearly and convincingly demonstrated and exposed. There are many conscientious Democrats in the county, who came, heard and saw, and went away satisfied that that clique had laid its plans well to deprive the Democratic party of its right even to say who should be its nominees. And being convinced of that as well as being fully aware of the plan to put in certain men as deputy sheriffs, in case of victory, these same Democrats are open in their declarations that the Democratic clique, although not fully installed into office and although not having the reins of the county government fully in charge, has already built itself up into the most corrupt, selfish and dangerous political organization that ever existed in the county, and, in claiming this, they make no exceptions. They all know who is scheduled for the chief deputy and who is to do the county order shaving, should he have the chance. It is the same who approached a Republican sheriff with the proposition to let him shave orders and divide the profits, but who was turned down so quickly by that honest official that it made him have blind staggers. It is not idle talk, when we say this proposition was made. It is not idle talk, when we say Short and the clique, of which these proposed deputies are members, has selected this man, who made that order shaving proposition to a Republican sheriff, has selected him for the chief deputy. This has been said repeatedly by the Telegram and no attempts have been made to deny it. Furthermore, it can not be successfully denied. Now, under such circumstances is there any honest man who wants to return to the old Democratic days, when hard earned money went into the coffers of men, who did not earn it and who enter into conspiracies with officers to rob him of what honestly belongs to him. The voters of Harrison county, the tax payers of Harrison county, have our word for it, and the evidence is such that they believe it, but, if there are any who do not, let them ask the clique itself or Short. Demand of him to say whether men who have the order shaving business in view, should Short be elected, are to be his deputies, or to have any thing to do with the office of sheriff.

Most people in the county who have given politics any thought at all must have learned by this time that that is the plan, and, if they have not, all they will have to do will be to keep an eye open a little while. Watch what the clique is doing. Behold who are Short's managers in this campaign. See who are his chief advisors. Learn with whom he has his consultations. Find out the fact that there are frequent star-chamber meetings, composed of himself and the clique. See who the few men are who are so anxious that he should be elected. Ascertain who are breaking their backs working for him. And after this has been looked into, it will be an easy matter to come to the conclusion that it is the clique that is trying to domineer the Democratic party and to get control of the county government, not for the benefit of the county, but for their own selfish purposes. With all these facts staring them in the face it is but little wonder that Democrats, who hold principle dear, are against such unwarranted usurpation of the party's rights, and such high-handed thievery of the party's rights, to say nothing of the deadly effect the domination of such a set would bring.

Indeed, it is, as already shown, a bitter thing to the people of Harrison county to even think for one moment that such a gang should get into power.

The question is being asked by some prominent and old-line Democrats, why the trio of the Democratic clique did not let any Democrat in Sardis district go to the state convention, and they say they are very anxious for an explanation. It is strongly intimated that the clique wanted to run the Harrison county delegation in the state convention and to be on the safe side they took care not to have Democrats there who do some thinking for themselves and are not under the poisonous influence of the little set that has set itself up as dictators and rulers of the Democratic party. It is important that the trio explain this matter. Will they do it? And, in this connection, they might also explain why one from this town, who professes to be a Republican and one of Dawson's staunchest supporters, according to life pretensions, one who wanted to lead Dawson around by the arm and tried to hang to his coat tail continually, next to the last time he was here, and, when he made a public speech here, bobbed around in the Democratic state convention and helped, or tried to help, to run the delegation in the interest of the Democratic clique, the same one who called part of the clique ugly names the evening of the Democratic county convention here. All these matters should be explained to these life-long Democrats since they express an eagerness to know the whys and wherefores. Let the clique come along and tell them just how it happened and why.

The Democratic clique sheet appears to have repudiated Cornwell, the Democratic nominee for governor, altogether. It is now engaged in trying to convince the people that Dawson is a Democrat, because he is supported by the Wheeling News, but only two days ago it denounced the editor of that paper for coming out for Dawson and charged him with having a bad liver. That sheet is not to be blamed, however, for foundering around so much, since the state platform is meaningless on the great question of the hour and especially since the nominee's record has been shown up bitterly opposed to the bills that the Democracy attempted for months to give Henry G. Davis so much credit for and upon which they announced repeatedly that they would run him for governor. We deny the imputation that Dawson is a Democrat, but we have not the slightest objection to the Clarksburg News giving him as much hearty support as it seems to have started out within the past day or so to do. Learning from the Wheeling News it gives evidence that it will shortly follow suit.

Possibly, if the Democratic clique organ would read some of the bills passed by the extra session of the legislature just closed, it would take a different stand on violations of law. Those bills tend to correct several evils. They were passed by the Republicans, while the Democrats, among whom was Cornwell, their candidate for governor, opposed them. Cornwell and his associates are on record as opposing all the reforms the new laws are intended to bring about, but, of course, the Democratic clique paper is not expected to be in line with even the Democratic party, since the clique itself in its eagerness to get into power and inaugurate the old order shaving regime, disregards every fundamental principle of its party and even throws it overboard to get a few votes it could not otherwise get. Besides that sheet, while it is howling about this, that and the other, might also take into consideration the fact that some places would not prosper, if it were not for the patronage given them by those who claim to be reformers.

Whether there be honor or not in receiving the votes of "coons" the News calls the negroes, it is a fact that Henry G. Davis and the Democratic state convention thought there was enough of importance in the negro question, as they termed it, to take the precaution not to let a plank get into the platform declaring for the disfranchisement of the negro. Their own actions in this respect show they thought there was considerable force in the question, whether there was any honor or not and that it was so potent that it would be dangerous for them to monkey with, and, after they had gotten themselves worked up to do something desperate, they got frightened and backed down and out. With that fact staring them in the face and while they are on the subject of honor, they might rush into print and tell us whether cowardice and the lack of courage to carry out their convictions are matters of honor.

The professed Democratic paper here, but in reality the organ of a select few of that party, says in substance that Ogden, of the Wheeling News, is enough of himself to defeat Cornwell for governor, and we agree with that sheet in that particular. But since they have said that Ogden "is a plenty" to do them up, we suppose their struggles in the future will be for the purpose of a vain attempt to win a bit of admiration from those who take delight in admiring a dead cat who has come to life eight times and entering on the throes of the ninth death, which is the last forever and ever.
